What to bring

- Passport or ID card for every driver
- Category B driving licence, if you drive an ATV
- Shoes that can get muddy
- A change of clothes
- Swimwear in summer

Good to know

- ATV drivers must be at least 21 and hold a category B (car) driving licence. No licence? One of our instructors drives and you ride as the passenger, or take a buggy
- Two on one ATV (a driver and a passenger) costs a little more per ATV than riding alone: it is priced in "ATV, two per quad"
- Before the start, every driver signs a rental and safety agreement, taking responsibility for their own health and for any damage they cause to the vehicle. We fill it in from your passport or ID card
- No alcohol before or during the ride. The instructor may stop a rider who breaks the safety rules, without a refund
- Routes are 17–90 km long; the Didgori full day is about 100 km
- Times are approximate: a 1 h 30 route can take 2 hours or more, depending on the group, its experience and its pace
- Book at least 2 days ahead
- Runs all year, in rain, mud or snow
- Two days across Kvemo Kartli are possible on request: write to us
